

Lent has never been so strictly observed by the gay set as it has this year, the past week seeing the first signs of gaiety since Ash Wednesday. Several Lenten teas and luncheons were given during the week, while the Masonic reception and the "Gene Field" evening at the McCormick mansion were the largest of the week's happenings.

With the chiming of Easter bells, the prospects for a gay spring season is very bright; already the Alta club reception, St. Mark's charity ball and one other large dancing party, with innumerable small affairs are on the tapis with the promise of a gay world busy until the lake season opens.

Sarah Rogers Sloan, who was the first to have charge of this department in The Herald, is now one of the most successful newspaper women in New York City. She won her reputation on the World, and Mr. Hurst, the millionaire owner of the Journal, was quick to see that her services would be of great value to his new venture and secured them. A recent issue of the Fourth Estate contains the following tribute to the lady:

"The selections from the staff of the New York World by the Journal have been marked by the science of seeing the individual value of those wanted. Mrs. Sarah Rogers Sloan, who had won distinction not only for her cleverness as a reporter but by her talents in the Sunday department of the World, is the latest recruit on the Journal."

Her popularity on the World was not only due to her fair southern face, but sprang from the admiration of those who saw in her one clever, charming and hard working. From riding on the front of a trolley car during the Brooklyn strikes, through crowds of angered men and women, to plodding over the details of the woman's department, and doing her work always well, she ranged through the various duties of a reporter.

Of gentle birth and training, she proved herself one of the true blue and the regret at her leaving the World has been equalled by the rejoicing of old friends transplanted at her entering the journalistic camp of the Journal.

Mrs. Sloan's many friends and admirers in Salt Lake will rejoice at her success, which cannot be greater than her deserts.

The advance sheets of the Blue Book are out, announcing that the forthcoming volume will be a complete club directory, and that Ogden society will be represented in the work. Is this widening of the scope to compensate for the rather extensive eliminations, as compared with former Blue Books, that it is said will be indulged in?

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Clift have issued invitations for a reception to be given at their new home, No. 47 East First South street, next Friday evening from 8 to 11.

The permanent ring is now erected in the Continental market, and the work of constructing the seats, dressing rooms, etc., will be completed at once for the Society Circus April 9, 10 and 11.

Special efforts are being made to make the equestrian parts of the programme equal in every respect to a professional circus.

"The little lady" will be asked "which she would prefer, the paper ring or the banner?" While the clowns will search their oldest almanacs for "fun notes" that flavor of Dan Rice and the earlier days.

The Y. M. C. A. athletes will give an exhibition of unusual merit.

Two prominent "men about town" will perform upon the slack wire and tight rope ten feet above the arena. Walt Clawson will introduce his famous Hambletonian stallion, Frank, in an act of horse training truly wonderful.

The "Band of Bounding Bedouin Arabs" will build pyramids four and five men high.

A team of Scotch dancers, Highland bagpipers and all round athletes will appear in Celtic costume and display their agility and abilities in old time sports and pastimes.

Mr. Clarence Sinclair, one of the best bareback riders in the west, will give a daring bareback "jockey" act.

Mrs. George Tatum has positively consented to appear in a "Haute école manœuvre" act.

Two young ladies who do not desire newspaper notoriety will ride bareback, a "sister act."

With trained ponies, funny clowns, trick donkeys, freaks, slideshows, acrobats, etc., the Society Circus looks like assuming larger proportions than had been dreamed of.

The odor of magnolia breathed a truly Lenten function at the Kensington tea given at the residence of Mrs. W. F. James in honor of Mrs. Cope of San Francisco, on Thursday afternoon. Miss Sibyl Anderson's exquisite violin solo was heartily received by the assembled guests. Mrs. Volmer and Mrs. James rendered selections during the afternoon. Mrs. L. L. Archer entertained twenty ladies at an informal luncheon Saturday afternoon.

Judge C. C. Goodwin will lecture at Unity hall Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Unitarian society, on "Lessons and Pictures."

The history section of the Ladies' literary club gave a very pleasant tea in their parlors Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. La Barthe.

Mrs. H. G. McMillan entertained a number of friends at luncheon Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Mockridge of Michigan. The table was tastefully decorated with cut flowers. The guests were Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Sowles, Mrs. Dickert, Mrs. C. S. Zane, Mrs. Terhune and Mrs. Rice of Park City.

Society turned out en masse to the Masonic reception Thursday evening.

Mrs. W. S. Willis entertained at a Kensington tea Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. A. C. Ewing entertained the following ladies at luncheon yesterday: Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. Dickert, Mrs. Gaby, Mrs. Hedges, Mrs. Sowles, Mrs. Winans and Mrs. Melton.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes entertained a number of friends very pleasantly at cards Wednesday evening. The parlors were artistically decorated with cut flowers, the evening proving a most enjoyable one to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Dr. and Mrs. Vincent, Major and Mrs. Silva, Mr. and Mrs. Markland, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Katz, Miss Lucella Miles, Miss Margaret Park, Miss Katz, Miss Lowe, Miss Forbes, Messrs. Thompson, Forbes, Bauer.

Mrs. T. G. Webber entertained a large number of friends Saturday afternoon at a Kensington tea in honor of her mother's birthday. A dainty tea was served, and the afternoon proved a very enjoyable one.

Mrs. John M. Zane was the hostess of the one large event of the week—a Lenten tea given in honor of Mrs. Henkle of Chicago Tuesday afternoon. The parlors were most attractive in their decorations of roses and carnations.

Lieutenant Pritchard of Fort Duchesne is visiting at Fort Douglas.

Mrs. A. W. Burrows entertained at luncheon Thursday afternoon at her new home on East Brigham street. The guests were Mrs. James Whitney of Iowa, Mrs. Anna E. Potter, Mrs. H. O. Milner, Mrs. Pomeroy, Mrs. Sarah A. Rock, Mrs. Anna E. Potter, Mrs. J. S. Beck, Mrs. J. J. Daly, Mrs. Savary, Mrs. Richardson and Miss Pomeroy.

Dr. and Mrs. Burrows entertained the following friends at cards Friday evening: Mr. and Mrs. John Milner, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Milner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knox, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Archer, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Houston.

The lunch cloth given by Miss Preston to the Woman's Exchange will be drawn Monday at the exchange parlors at 3:30 p.m. Ticket holders are requested to be present.

Monday evening the G. A. R. order and the Woman's Relief corps will give a social in the G. A. R. hall. A musical programme has been prepared and Governor Wells and Rev. T. C. Huff will make addresses.

Mrs. Roy Midgley was the victim of a very pleasant and well arranged surprise party last Tuesday evening. Literary selections took up the greater part of the evening, followed by singing. At 10 o'clock light refreshments were served to the Misses Crimmon, McDonald, Cochran, Lawson, Beebe, Jackson, Pearl, Mammie Pearson, Robbins, Nowell, Messrs. Evans, Midgley, McKee, Meakin, Lyon, Wills, Rogers, Roy Midgley, Tony Midgley, Will Schoppe.

Miss Amy Hyde, formerly of Salt Lake, will visit Mrs. Ewing early in April.

Mr. Stiefel of Helena is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gash of Provo are visiting Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Burrows.

Mrs. Winans will leave for Chicago early in April.

The Ladies' Unitarian society gave another of their popular socials Tuesday evening. The early part of the evening was devoted to light refreshments by Mrs. Silva and Miss Long. After the musical programme, the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Pinkerton will return from the east by April 1.

Miss Annie Pratt was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening at her home, 415 North Second West street. Among those present were the Misses Duncombe, Popworth, Collett, Hall, Hayes, Mowrey, Price, Leuten, Perry, Lowry, Traynor, Brown, and Messrs. Waddell, Campy, Papworth, Pennic, Asper, Duncombe, Davis, Wilson, Rippet, Phillips, Watson, Mellon, Wilding, Traynor, Thomas, Pratt and Lorin Wadock.

Miss Mabel Webb entertained her friends Friday evening at a birthday party. High five, music and games formed plenty of amusement for her guests the greater part of the evening. Refreshments were served about 11 o'clock to the Misses Dyer, Riebel, Hall, Pritchard, Kimball, Staples, Badger, Birdie Staples, Estella Webb, Winnie Webb, Maude Pratt and Messrs. Early, Spikins Johnson, Webb, Griggs, Rash, Fred Wilson, Tobias, Hudson, Rice.

The "Evening with 'Gene Field'" given by the Young Ladies' Aid society at the McCormick residence Thursday evening proved a complete success.

On Wednesday evening a double wedding was celebrated by quite a number of Germans and some of their English friends in the old B. Y. school house, now the German meeting house. The contracting parties were Mr. William Dunderker and Miss Rosa Zwily, and Mr. Emil Bollschweiler and Miss Anna E. Bauer, both couples having been united at the temple of the same day. A delicious wedding supper was served and the evening was spent in vocal and instrumental music, recitations and dancing until an early hour in the morning, all wishing the newly wedded ones much happiness through the journey of life.

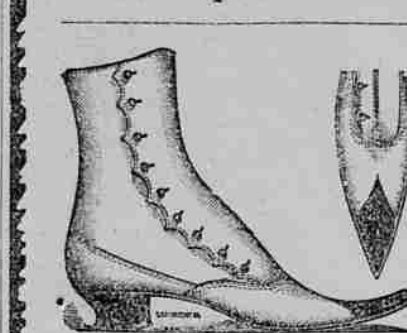

Ogden Society.

Several circumstances combined to make the entertainment by the chamber of commerce on Friday night looked forward to as the chief social event of the week. To begin with, it was by prominent society people, under the direction of Miss Edith Aschmore, and the memory of a successful entertainment of a similar nature was still fresh in the public mind. Moreover, there was an air of mystery about the performance which played upon the curiosity of the participants.

The participants were known to be prominent society belles, but they were hidden behind such a programme of burnt cork, and on the programme their identity was rendered still more vague by such names as Mrs. Jane Busby, Topsy Wayback, Dannah Jimpson, Liza Ann Dusty, or Buster Caesar Lee. Knowing the great public curiosity on this subject of identity, The Herald office arranged for a set of Crookes tubes and turned the lights on the array of burnt cork. Excellent negatives of the rosy, checked belles were secured, even through the layers of dense olive coloring matter. It was a splendid demonstration of the power of the new photography, and on account of it The Herald is able to give the names of the various participants. The curtain rose for the first part, disclosing the ladies in raised tiers in regular minstrel fashion. All joined in keeping time and time to the chorus "Isabella," and from that on the fun was of the regular minstrel order. Jokes, songs, dances and the like. No end of fun was created by some of the local allusions, and it some of the jokes seemed to have a personal criticism was disarmed by the remark that everything was for fun, and nothing else.

The interlocutor of the occasion was Miss Ruth Morehead, and well she acquitted herself, as did the tambos, Misses Stayner and Snyder, and the bones, Misses Harrington and Ashmore.

The first solo, "Dark Brown Lou," by Miss Lillie Stayner, brought forth unanimous applause. "Someone's Little Girl," a sweet, touching piece, sung by the bill said by Melinda Sparks, but the exquisite taste revealed Miss Carrie Booth even better than the song. "Phoebe," by Miss Ashmore, had to be repeated twice; and "Happy Birds," by Little McCoy, was another very popular song. Miss Ulrich made quite a hit in "The Little Cabin" song.

At this juncture a surprise was introduced in an original step-dance by Misses Harrington and Stayner. It had to be done three times. "Clothilde" was sung very sweetly indeed, and but few failed to recognize the voice of Mrs. C. M. Brough. "Go to Sleep, My Honey," was a very popular number. Owing to over exposure and the fact that the subject was in continued activity while crooning this lullaby, the negative of the lady is somewhat blurred, but still it bears a striking resemblance to Mrs. Conroy.

Miss Harrington had to "Hiss Your Umbrella" twice, and sang about it each time, before the curtain went down on the first part of the programme.

The second part opened with a typical southern plantation scene, with pickaninies galore rolling about on the grass. "Mammy," who watched over them, was complete, until she began to sing "Old Kentucky Home," and then all knew Mrs. C. M. Brough.

The pickaninies were as good as anything of the kind ever seen in a regular minstrel organization. Little Crete Corsey, 4 years old, was the pickaninny who led the line of dancers.

A diminutive little tot sang "Alabama Coo" in a way that completely took the house. As an encore she sang "Mammy," who watched over them, was complete, until she began to sing "Old Kentucky Home," and then all knew Mrs. C. M. Brough.

Some step-dancing by Jay Francis, a colored boy, brought out a double encore.

Earl Rogers first gave a "rag dance" and as an encore gave another fancy step-dance. At the conclusion of his dancing Miss Ashmore, in behalf of the lady minstrels, presented him with a gold medal in recognition of his talent used in aid of the organization on this and other occasions. Judge Hulanek was the master of ceremonies and tied the knot in a very impressive manner.

Mr. J. G. Lawson and Miss Martha Burrows were united in marriage March 14 at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. George W. Larkin, Jr., on Twenty-fourth street. Only a few of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. Judge Hulanek was the master of ceremonies and tied the knot in a very impressive manner.

Thursday evening the Jefferson Avenue Card club met with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Whalon and spent a very enjoyable evening. Mrs. E. M. Allison secured the first prize for ladies, while A. B. Patton carried off the gentleman head prize. Refreshments were served and general sociability obtained throughout the evening.

Dr. Conroy returned on Wednesday from a visit to his home in Iowa.

and made merry with games for several hours. Refreshments were served and it was a very pleasant evening indeed for the little folks.

The pleasant surprise party given in honor of George Shorten by his neighbors and other fellow workers was held in the news columns of this paper. Aside from the presentation speeches and replies and other speeches a genuine social time was had. The home of Mr. Shorten on Shorten avenue was taxed to accommodate the throng. There was no set programme, but songs and recitations as well as other pleasant forms of amusement added to make the party a pleasant one. Among those present were noticed: Bishop McQuarrie, C. C. Richards, A. McL. Boyle and wife, J. L. Herrick and wife, A. J. Johnson and wife, John C. Ellis and wife, E. S. Stearns and wife, John C. Carr and wife, A. P. Ballinger, F. L. Scoville, Henry Bailey, C. W. Hinchelliff, Marshall Hinchelliff, Rollo Emmett, Lester Scoville, William Sullwell, William Pearce and wife, William Pearce, Jr. Mr. Shorten left yesterday for Liverpool.

Last evening at 75 Twenty-fourth street, the residence of Walter Richey, a host of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richey gathered to celebrate the couple's silver wedding. The rooms were thronged with guests, refreshments were served and a general good time was had by all. Several valuable presents testified to the good will of the donors toward Mr. and Mrs. Richey.

The S. O. O. B. club was delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Bickford, on Adams avenue.

BIG SNOW. Between my window and the far away, Is with a fairy film of smoke-blue lace, Through which soft lines of many things I trace: The lily's sycamore, like silver spray, Gleam against the hillside's steep and mottled face. Like polished limestone lie the clouds 'Neath which no animated wing is driven; Naught in the vale or on the hill doth move. Now denser grows the view, and from the heaven The fair flakes flutter everywhere below: A thin white carpet on earth's floor doth grow. The hill recedes; slow, spiral breath is given To broad, white flakes that fast to earthward flow: Now hills are gone; air, earth are bent by snow. —James Noel Johnson, in the New Bohemian.
